“To love him with all your heart, with all your understanding and with all your strength, and to love your neighbor as yourself is more important than all burnt offerings and sacrifices.” (Mark 12:33, NIV)

Lesson Aims

As a result of experiencing this lesson, you should be able to do the following:

- Contrast the meaning of “knowing” the First Commandment (Mark 12) with practicing it in daily life (James 2).
- Identify sincere love for God, self, and others in your attitudes and motivations.
- Assess the immediate needs of your communities and provide goods and services accordingly.

32 And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; and there is none other but he:

33 And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.

34 And when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. And no man after that durst ask him any question.

NIV

28 One of the teachers of the law came and heard them debating. Noticing that Jesus had given them a good answer, he asked him, “Of all the commandments, which is the most important?”

29 “The most important one,” answered Jesus, “is this: ‘Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one.

30 “‘Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind and with all your strength.’

31 “The second is this: ‘Love your neighbor as yourself.’ There is no commandment greater than these.”

32 “Well said, teacher,” the man replied. “You are right in saying that God is one and there is no other but him.

33 “To love him with all your heart, with all your understanding and with all your strength, and to love your neighbor as yourself is more important than all burnt offerings and sacrifices.”

34 When Jesus saw that he had answered wisely, he said to him, “You are not far from the kingdom of God.” And from then on no one dared ask him any more questions.

At times, teachers struggle to explain truth when students prefer debate over understanding. This was the case with those questioning Jesus. Their aim was to trap Him, yet His joining of the commandments into two imperatives was brilliant.

Jewish leaders enjoyed debate and legal subdivision. By Jesus’ time, in addition to the Ten Commandments (see Exodus 20:1-17), there were 613 mitzvot (commandments) covering spiritual, civil, and judicial life. These included guidance on worship, family, business, festivals, diet, prayer, vows, and many other matters. With so many, it was difficult to entrap Jesus.

His first command was to love God with one’s entire being. This was not just emotion or intellect but the full use of heart, soul, mind, and strength. God is love (see 1 John 4:8). Loving Him completely leaves no room for sin or rebellion. Nothing can be greater than this command.

The second command was to love one’s neighbor. Measuring love by one’s care for self left no excuse to diminish another person. Leaders could not place themselves above the people they served. Jesus' command also raised a deeper issue: how does one truly love oneself? Many fail even to value God's creation within themselves, which is why this, too, is a command.

? WHAT DO YOU THINK?

The religious leaders of Jesus' day overcomplicated God's law. Are believers today at risk of missing the kingdom because of making the same mistake?

The Practicality of Faith (James 2:14-17)

KJV

14 What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?

15 If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food,

16 And one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body; what doth it profit?

17 Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone.

NIV

14 What good is it, my brothers and sisters, if someone claims to have faith but has no deeds? Can such faith save them?

15 Suppose a brother or a sister is without clothes and daily food.

16 If one of you says to them, "Go in peace; keep warm and well fed," but does nothing about their physical needs, what good is it?

17 In the same way, faith by itself, if it is not accompanied by action, is dead.

Some people see Christianity only as doctrine, precepts, or rules. Scripture memorization is necessary, but without practice, it is incomplete. Jesus made clear that God's commands are meant to be lived. James echoes this by insisting that faith and works cannot be separated.

As Jesus' earthly brother, James saw His life up close. Jesus taught multitudes from mountains, synagogues, and shorelines. Yet, His greatest teaching came through what He did. His substitutionary death on the cross was the high point. Even from the cross, He cared for His mother, gave hope to the thief, and offered salvation to all. James saw faith made visible in action.

His phrase "faith without works is dead" stresses the uselessness of empty religion. This does not contradict Paul's teaching that salvation comes by grace through faith. Instead, James shows that genuine faith naturally produces works. Words without action are hollow. Human needs require a real response.

James' message is practical: feeding the hungry, clothing the poor, visiting the sick, and caring for prisoners embody the Gospel. Saving faith must be seen, not just spoken.

🔍 WHAT DO YOU THINK?

What ministries of compassion and service can your church support to demonstrate faith in action in today's world?

A Closing Thought

An adult Sunday school class learned that socks are the most requested item at a nearby shelter. Inspired, class members organized a sock drive to meet this need. Their actions reflected the truth that “love acts,” meaning that love is more than words. Genuine faith engages the world by responding to real needs with compassion and generosity.

Your Life

For years, the church had been planning a 2026 Christmas trip to Bethlehem. Military conflict in the region made this impossible. How can your church fulfill its mission locally instead? What actions could substitute for the missed opportunity, ensuring that the heart of the trip—sharing the Gospel—is not lost but expressed in another way?

Your World!

The adult Sunday school class decided to recommend a sock collection drive for the local shelter. They heard that this was the most requested item by homeless people. Believing that love acts, they wanted to do more than talk about missions; they wanted to be about missions.

🙏 Closing Prayer

Dear God, help us not only to speak of love but also to show it through faithful action. We ask this in the mighty name of Jesus. Amen.

Conclusion

(Preparing for Next Week's Lesson)

How can believers honor God through both their physical health and their spiritual fitness? In preparation for next week's lesson, please read Daniel 1:8-17; 1 Timothy 4:7-8.
